'All speed is in the morning'

Monday thru Friday, the 8:00 bell rang in another typical school day for PHS'ers. The hustle-bustle to lockers, a quick chat with friends, an occasional trip to counselors for a pass, and then on to first period class — an every day scene, familiar to all students.

Ah, noon at last! One precious hour to break the monotony of classes. Pitching a book in a locker, throwing on a coat, and dashing off to lunch was a routine no one missed. Then back to school for an arousing game of volleyball, basketball, or just a time of relaxation with a friend.

'The night has a thousand eyes'

Restless and tired, students in every classroom eyed the clock as the hand swept around to 3:05. Once again, there was a mad rush to lockers and out to an awaiting bus or car. Students were off to team practice, club activities, dates, part-time jobs, or just out for fun.

Brubaker honored by PHS

Principal of Portland High School from 1941 to 1969, Harold Brubaker had the greatest respect of those he worked with. One of his major accomplishments at PHS was successfully moving the high school from the present Jr. High building to the present location. He broadened the curriculum and kept the school running smoothly.

Mr. Brubaker was a sports enthusiast, especially of basketball. He backed his pack of Panthers through many victories.

One close friend and colleague of Brubaker said, "In the time I worked with Mr. Brubaker, he had the school and faculty so well organized people pulled together."

A very loyal and positive man, Mr. Brubaker served as a fine example of sportsmanship, leadership, courage, and ethics for teachers and students alike.

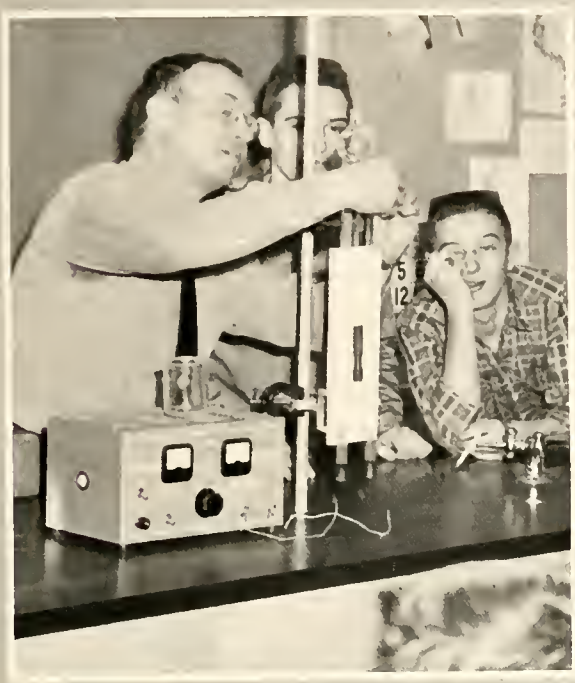
Fashions change but the idea of having fun doesn't. PHS has had new faces, trends, and styles enter its doors each fall for the past 50 years.

PHS will soon close, but the friendships and memories will remain.



'Teachers let the monkeys out . . .'

$x = \frac{-b + b - 4ac}{2a}$ . . . What year was the War of 1812? . . . Johnny fell off his bike. (Circle the verb.)

Problems stared back at students from text books, blackboards, and tests. Some made all A's — the rest struggled to pass or just gave up.

Sports: everlasting enjoyment

In 1925 Portland's career at basketball, football, track, cross-country, and baseball began. Up till 1975 these sports have not changed considerably.

In the years to follow, P.H.S. has had some very rewarding experiences in tournies, sectionals, and regionals.

Those were the days . . .

Organizations at P.H.S. have taken up much of the students' and faculty's time in the past years.

There are such clubs as Y-teens, which help girls to help others; Hi-Y, which is for boys interested in helping others also; and Pep Club, organized to lead the team in yells whether winning or losing.

SCHOOL LIFE

Summer camps few but fun

Workshops this summer were few in number. There were a total of four groups attending various universities and camps to work on ways of bettering themselves in the subjects they had chosen.

The Varsity cheerleaders went to Ball State University Cheer Clinic for five days to learn exciting cheers, stunts and chants to make the last year the most spirited at PHS.

Davilee Turner, Editor of the TYPHOON, and Debi Peden, Editor of the PH Spirit, went to Ball State University in July to learn new techniques in journalism to improve the contents of the PH Spirit and the TYPHOON.

Debi Peden, Linda Priest, Teresa McNees, Terrie Valentine and Bonita Hall were chosen to attend Y-teen camp at Syracuse Indiana to abolish racism all over the world.

Mr. Freemyer had chosen Mike McKinley to attend a High School Math Institute at Indiana University June 16-22 to learn new methods of math.

Sussan is shown preparing her exhibition for the Winter Carnival. Her display included pictures, relics, and a film of her native country Iran. The display was held to make money for the Senior Class and the AFS Club. The exhibit proved to be very interesting and educational.

PHS welcomes Sussan

Sussan Amini, AFS (American Field Service) student from Iran, spent her Senior year at Portland High School. Sussan lived in Terhan, the capital of Iran.

Sussan was active in many clubs including Y-Teens, AFS, and Pep Club. Sussan said, "My favorite club was Pep Club. The games were fun and exciting."

Sussan is obviously making last minute preparations for the Y-Teen Winter Formal. She looked beautiful in a blue flowered formal. She commented, "The dance was nice, and I really had a good time. The gym looked beautiful."

'74 — Final homecoming victory

The Panthers defeated the Delta Eagles 16-13 in a memorable football game.

Long hours were put into planning the parade, building floats and learning routines for bands.

Roger Alig and Letha Schoenlein reigned as king and queen. Other candidates for queen were Davelee Turner and Chris Beumer. King candidates were Brad Heath and Jim Judy.

People change, places change and time moves on. Next year there will no longer be a Portland High School. We will live to the fullest, and we'll remember this Homecoming for years to come.

Do Blondes have more fun?

Entertainment and laughter were the two key words used in the response to the 1974 Junior Class Play GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES.

In addition to a good review, the play was praised highly. Lapses of memory, make-up messes, perfected cues, and long, hard practices were just a few of the pains suffered during preparation for the play.

Leading roles went to Kerri King as Lorilei, Tammy Kenyon as Dorthy Gilbert, Terry Adcock as Henry Spoffard, and Joe Ludy as Daddy. Spice was added to the play with the humorous parts of Teresa McNees as Mrs. Spoffard, Linda Priest as Miss Chapmen, and Lisa Thornburg as Aunt Dolly.

Credit must also go to Mr. Phillips for his professional help. Thanks to his concern and great interest, the Juniors made at least 1,000 dollars through ticket money and donations.

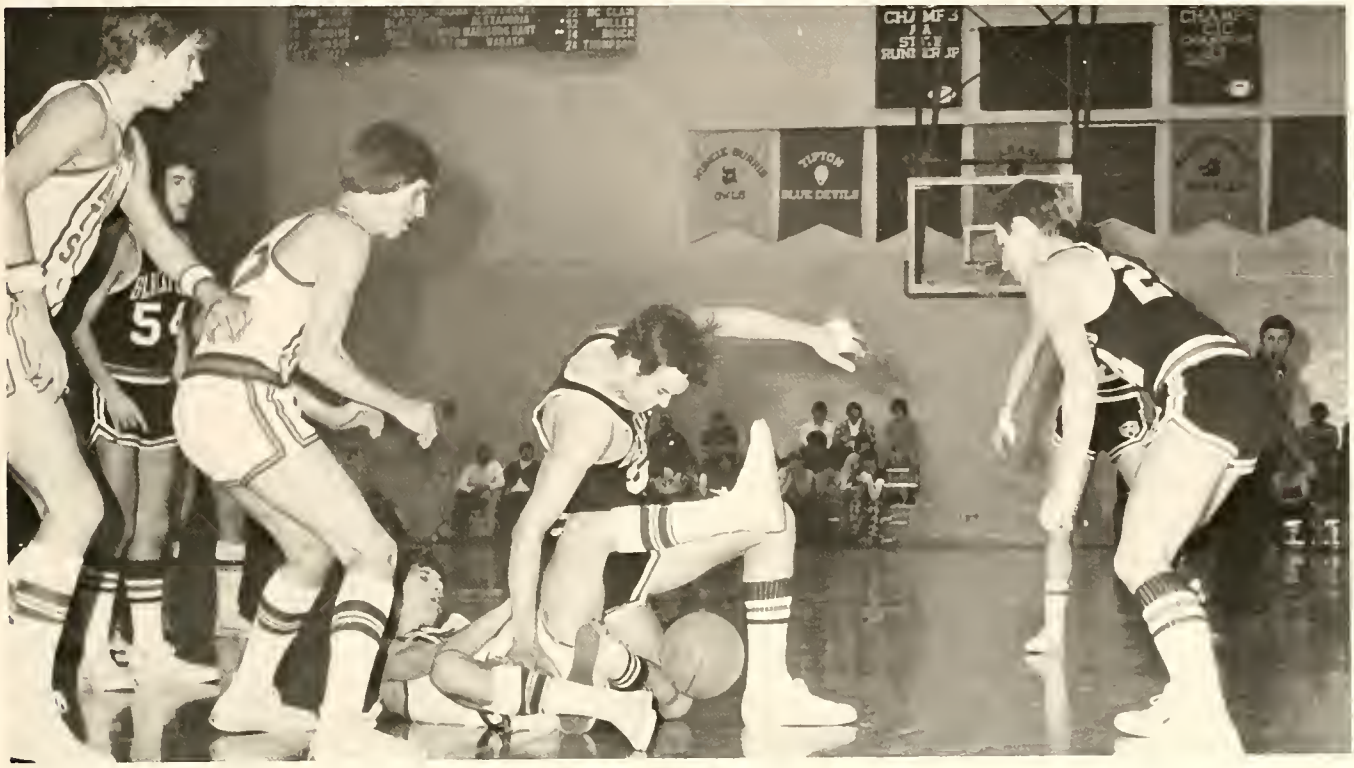
Above left: The teachers contribution to the sectional spirit was a ten man pyramid, built in sixty seconds during the pep session. Their enthusiasm was greatly appreciated by the team and the students. Above right: This snapshot was taken the second night of the sectional. It was Portland's first game of the sectional and their last game of the season. Portland Panthers were defeated by the Blackford Bruins with a final score of 67-62. The guys played a great game but were unable to bring home a victory. Below: Bryant's Dave Reinhart scrambles for the ball during the Bryant-Redkey game played Tuesday night of the sectional. The Bryant Owls defeated the Redkey Wolves with a score of 56-38.

The 1974-75 Basketball Sectional was one of excitement for everyone involved. The Sectional started on a Tuesday night with Bryant playing Redkey. Bryant was victorious and went on to play Dunkirk Friday night. Wednesday Portland played Blackford and Pennville played Eastbrook. The winners of those games were Blackford and Eastbrook. Blackford was victorious Friday night, and Dunkirk beat Bryant in an overtime with a score of 63-57. Blackford beat Dunkirk in the final game of the sectional and became the champs.



Above: Blackford and Dunkirk players fight for the ball during the final quarter of the game. The game was played on Saturday night and was the last game of the sectional. Blackford came through victorious with a score of 90-55, hence winning the sectional and going on to the regional. Below left: Portland's Mike Walters (20) and Blackford's Ron Trosper collide under the bucket during the Panthers game with the Bruins Wednesday night of the sectional. In on the play is Bruce Moser (34) of Portland. Below right: Portland High Cheerleaders kept spirit alive during the game with chants, yells, and winning smiles. The cheerleaders and the Cheer Committee did their best to bring the spirits of the students and the team to a maximum during sectional week.

Seniors present 'Guardian Angel'

The Senior Class Play, "Guardian Angel," was a delightful comedy produced by very enthusiastic and hard working seniors. Performances were March 20 and 21 in the Junior High Auditorium. The three act, full length play was written by Guy Bolton. Mrs. Arlene Miller, director of the play, commented that the seniors were great kids to work with.

TOP: Paul de Lussac seems confident that Ramon Cintos, played by Doug Bowen, doesn't have a gun hidden in the pocket of his coat. LEFT: Judy Gagle, playing the role of Susi Flamberg, puts the move on de Lussac. ABOVE: Mrs. Miller and student director Debbie Neargarder tell the crews their different tasks.

The 1975 Variety Show was a fantastic production of combined talent and wit. There were a total of 19 acts in the program, which made the show interesting to people of all ages. The production consisted of singing, dancing, and comedy acts.

Glenn Priest, choir director, and Dave Humbert, band director, supervised the show. Everyone worked long, hard hours to make the production a great success.

ABOVE: The 1975 Junior-Senior Prom was a great success. The theme of the gracious event was "It's a Jungle." People who attended the prom dance to the music of Mandrake 10. BELOW: Kids dance to a slow song of Mandrake 10 during the prom part of the evening from 8-12. During this time, there was a feeling of love and beauty in the air. No one seemed to be worn out yet. Everyone concentrated on having a good time and making the night something special.

"It's a Jungle" was the theme of the 1975 prom. The evening started at 8 o'clock and ended at 6 the next morning. MANDRAKE 10 played for the prom part. For the Wing Ding, music was supplied by EXILE, sponsored by the Rotary Club. The juniors worked many hard hours to make the last prom at PHS the best. Junior Class sponsors were Max Himelick and John Namovich. The evening was a very special one for everyone who attended.

Programs eliminate school boredom

Convocations at Portland High School this year proved to be both educational and entertaining. They ranged from kids singing and dancing to police dogs and pep sessions.

Mrs. Carol Wilson, a teacher at PHS, was in charge of the programs. She did a great job of providing the students with interesting topics. There's nothing like a program to make the school day seem shorter.

ABOVE: Gay Bright, Sandy Lowe, Connie Mills, and Mary Vormohr give the guys victory kisses at a convocation during the basketball season. The guys and girls both seemed to enjoy the embarrassing situation they were in.

Starting off the presentation was Mr. Lyons, who presented awards to Dan Heffelmire and Terry Iliff. Mr. Humbert then presented Doug Bowen with the band award, followed by Mr. Priest who presented awards to all choir members. Mr. Moser recognized the Track members and presented Randy Wyrick with a jacket. Then Mr. Meinerding and Mr. Smitley gave the Social Studies and Business awards. The awards went on for at least an hour with the awards varying from Business to Sports recognition.

To close the Awards Day, Mrs. Van Matre was given a dozen roses for the time and patience she has put in making P.H.S. what it is.

Principal Harold Schutz commented in his speech that Sussan was one of the most enjoyable AFS students Portland has ever had. BELOW: 1975 Graduates look on as their classmates get their diplomas. From the looks on the seniors' faces, they all seem to be enjoying the ceremony.

The last students to graduate from Portland High School accepted their diplomas Sunday, May 25, at the school auditorium. Dr. Harley Alutenchlager, director of the ISU Laboratory School, delivered the address at the commencement exercises. It was a day of both happiness and sorrow. Everyone wishes the class of 1975 the best of luck and success in all they do.

ACADEMICS

We take you to our leaders

Mrs. Nell Hampson was the secretary to Mr. Schutz and also headed the Athletic department fund.

Mr. Harold Schutz confronted another excellent year as principal of Portland High School.

Mrs. Nadine Miller was the school treasurer and secretary for the guidance counselors.

Checking grades and credits, handing out admittance slips, dealing with personal student problems, administering scholastic tests, and alerting students about their future, these are the jobs of guidance counselors. Keeping students under control, keeping school situations under control, offering help, and just being there, these are the jobs of office members. They represent honesty and leadership. They led us through victories, depressions, and unsureness. We depended on them and now ... we salute them.

Mr. Glen Bryant issued boy's admittance passes and aided with junior scheduling.

Mr. Bryant is shown trying to sort out and check the sign up sheets for the new high school. This was a very painstaking and tiring job which required some extra hours for the guidance counselors.

This is what counseling is all about. Mrs. Van Matre has taken time out of her schedule to answer a confused Lisa Peterson.

Richard Telfer — C.M.U., Reading program in Jay County.

In the English program, we learn to correct grammar, express ourselves through writing, and expand our knowledge of English which can help us in all of our courses. With selection between general or college prep courses, students were greatly prepared for future life. Packets and self-evaluation chapters added much interest to the course. Games and journals also added to the fun. Reading also ties in with bettering ourselves. Mr. Telfer headed that department. With machines and word games, he has done an excellent job with this area. He set up his reading room in front of the library.

Past, present, and future help

Studying, taking notes, and memorizing, these are the essentials in History. In the year of "75," the Social Studies classes evaluated, analyzed, and studied world situations and were able to forecast a bit of the future. In World Geography, the classes studied different countries and their various terrains and cultures. The behavior patterns of groups and individuals were studied in Senior Pschology. The Civics classes studied state and federal constitution and government.

Ag. Occupations is the program of distributive education for senior boys set up by the agricultural department at PHS, enabling them to work part of the day and attend school the other part. Each student receives two credits per semester. Students involved in the course work a minimum of fifteen hours per week. They also meet fifth period for class time. Mr. Lyons is the instructor in charge of the program.

take care of business

Taking care of business every day ... Every student enrolled in business courses must take care of business in their daily assignments, which aren't easy. Business covers courses ranging from typing and shorthand to bookkeeping and accounting. Most of these students will go on to business schools, but now they are just taking care of business every day.

BELOW LEFT: Karen Tullis, a junior at Portland high School, and Buffy Ronald, also a junior, are shown correcting a few mistakes on their typing assignment. They are taking the second year course. Home ec. offers useful training

"I like it! It's different because both sexes are involved in discussions involving topics like reproduction," Bruce Moser remarked of Family Relations. Offered to seniors only, this class was quite popular among both sexes.

S.H.E. Basics gave Senior girls without previous high school Home Ec. courses a chance to become acquainted with the basics of cooking and sewing.

Child Development, Housing and Management, and Clothing/ Textiles were accepted by many students as necessary training for our changing world.

Davilee Turner and Sarah Theurer show the art of pizza making in 6th period S.H.E. Basics. Under the direction of Mrs. McCabe, girls are taught the basic skills of both cooking and sewing in order to run their own homes someday.

Color changing hue

As we advance in years, we find ourselves expanding and spreading in different directions. Art can help students as they grow up to grow out and realize talents never recognized before. But art also is for the talented students who want to further their education in art and use this knowledge in their career. Mrs. Iris Myers, the instructor of the class, offers classes from beginning to advanced art.

Art popular with the students is macrame, working with metals, painting and pottery. The materials the students work with are copper, clay, pastels, and paints. This allows a student to work in several different catagories.

Experience is the best teacher

ABOVE: Bruce Moser electrically sands down a project piece to give it a smooth finish. Bruce is a senior at PHS. RIGHT: Dennis Gruse is repairing a toaster with various tools.

To grow and experience, to understand and achieve, that is what education is all about. A part of learning is doing for yourself. That is what shop class is all about. Students work, under experienced supervision, with advanced tools and create various objects, thus learning the basic fundamentals of mechanics. They also learned to pay special attention to the care of the machines and tools. Students worked in such areas as welding, electronic repair of machines and appliances, drafting, and wood crafting, to name a few.

Grenadiers represent PHS well

Spirit was induced by the Portland High School Grenadier Guards as they played at home games under Mr. David Humbert. Marching at the Mermaid Festival, at Delaware, at Invitational Band Day, and at various county parades, the band of 90 members rated high in many performances.

17 majorettes led the Genadiers in parades. Performing during half times at home games, they chose such selections as "Shaft."

R-E-A-C-Hing for the sky, majorettes practice for an upcoming performance. Leading the Grenadier Guards in many parades, the 17 girls were quite an attractive addition to the band.

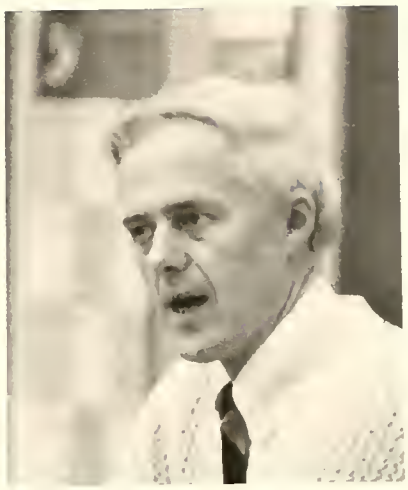
The Portland Madrigal group consists of ROW 1: Lisa Thornburg, LaDonna Slaven, Linda Thornburg, Missy Young, Linda Priest, Connie Landers. ROW 2: Larry Gillum, Jeff Corle, John Weinland, Bill Blowers, Terry Adcock, Doug Bowen.



GLEN PRIEST — Earlham, Swing choir, Madrigals, Chorus.

Choirs bring honor to PHS

For the first time, the Portland High choir was directed by Mr. Glen Priest. The choir meets the first period of the day and teaches the students harmony, technique, and pitch. The choir performed for the Thanksgiving convocation and for various civic clubs.

ICT joins school and job

Industrial Cooperative Training gave students the opportunity to gain experience in a business situation. Many local businesses cooperated with the school in offering job and career opportunities for students interested in the program. Mr. Charles Ludy supervised the class and helped with students' questions.

Cadet teaching proves helpful

Cadet teaching enabled students to get a taste of what teaching is really like. It is a one semester course taken by students with a "B" average or better. Each person was assigned to help with a class and the instructing teacher. Their jobs included decorating bulletin boards, helping the students to read, grading papers, and getting acquainted with the students. The seniors enjoyed this course and got valuable experience from teaching.

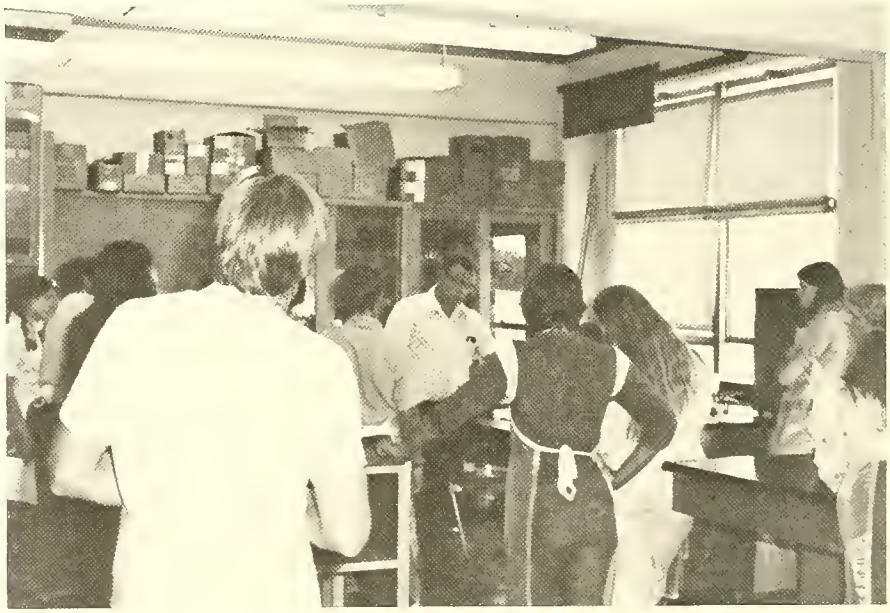
ROBERT FREEMYER — Capital U., Miami U., Bowling Green U., B.S.U., Purdue U., Advanced Algebra, College Algebra, Analytic Geometry, Math-Science Club, Cheer Comm.



Mr. Smith demonstrates to his class a project to help them understand the assignment more clearly. He is explaining every move and process thoroughly.

The Math-Science department has been excellent with modern procedures for old equipment. The winner of the Math-Science Trophy this year, who averaged A's in seven semesters of Science and eight semesters of Math, was Troy Ballard, a senior and honor student. The winner of the Math-Science Club pin was Kibbie Vance. The teachers of these subjects often planned together their courses in order to know the extent of the knowledge of their students by the time they reach their class.

Mr. Smith, Mr. Himelick, and Mr. Freemyer made an excellent team of combined wits and talent to instruct classes ranging from Sophomores to Seniors. Textbook study in some of these courses was supplemented by special reports.

Coached by Jerry Burns, Portland High School's football team came back for a great last season.

The eleven returning lettermen (eight seniors and three juniors) helped the team end with a 5-5 record.

Lineman Steve McBride and running back Ron Allen were honorably mentioned by the 1974 Associated Press all state football team. McBride, a senior, was named as both an offensive guard and a defensive tackle.

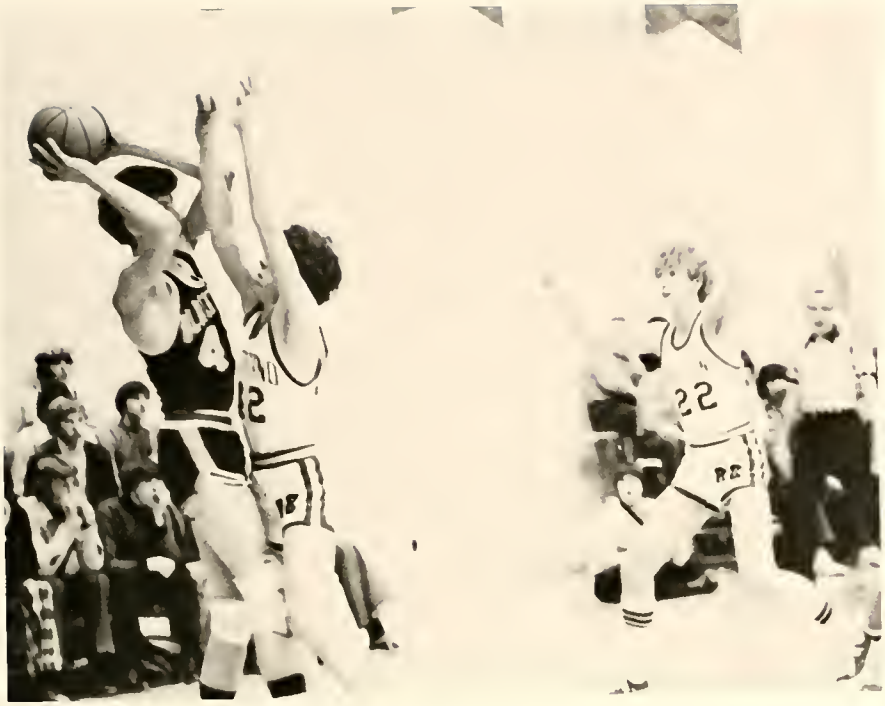
The Panthers didn't let last year's season hurt this year's morale, as they came crashing back to win the first four games of the season. Slacking off for a bit, but not for long, Coach John Engle helped the Panthers pull themselves together again and come right back winning.

Although the whole team was full of valuable players, the MVP award went to Brad Heath. Brad was named Most Valuable Player by his fellow teammates.



Hands up! Gary Tinkham (42) and Dean Hunt (22) have their hands high as Blackford Bruins try to score.

The Junior Varsity football team had a very good season this year. The Panthers had an impressive record of six wins and two losses. They worked very hard for this and so did their coach Don Moore. This year's MVP award went to Terry Mock.

The Junior Varsity basketball players kept right up with their opponents, if not winning, losing by a small amount. They were coached by Bob Baker and ended the season with a twelve and eight record. Both Junior Varsity teams had a lot of determination that kept their team spirit going.

Harriers hustle onward

Under the leadership of coach Larry Moser, the Portland High School Cross Country team practiced many long hours. Running Cross Country isn't an easy job, but these boys ran their hardest and did their best to give PHS a good name.

The CC Runners did comparably well with only 3 of the 8 runners returning from last year. The two running seniors were Kevin May and Larry Miller. Everyone tried his hardest to make the season a huge success.

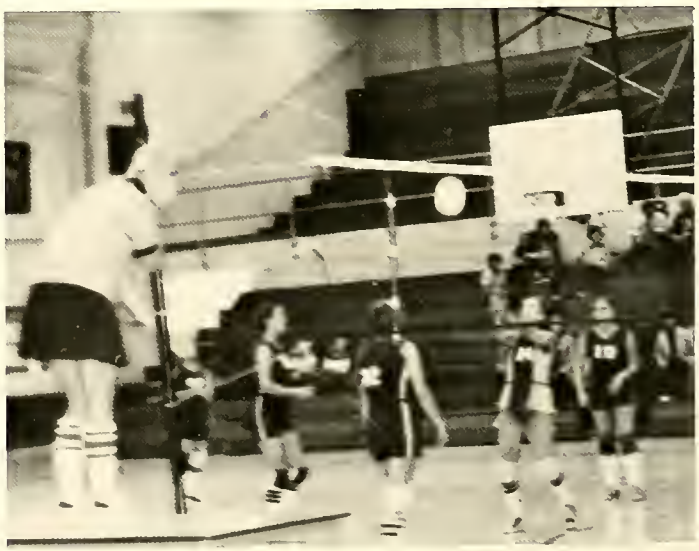
This is the first year that our women athletes have received proper recognition.

The volleyball team, coached by Miss Shirley Rogers, has done spectacularly well, only to lose out in the first game of the sectional. The women ended with a final record of 8 wins and two losses.



The girls work hard to overcome Union City in their final home game. They won the game with the scores of 15-9 and 15-2 and finished the season with a very impressive record of 8 wins and only 2 losses. Whether the girls won or lost, they put up a fight every time.

Women push hard in track and field

The women's track team didn't do as well as was expected of them, only to win one out of the seven meets they had.

Although the women didn't do too well, Portland High School was just as proud of them for trying as they would have been for winning.

FFA members bring top honors

FFA's primary aim is the development of agricultural leadership, co-operation, and citizenship. FFA consisted of members working for their future and building a worthwhile organization. Members competed in soil, poultry, dairy, and crop judging contests with other district FFA organizations.

FFA had scrap iron drives and sold garden seed to raise money for activities. They attended a National Machinery and Tractor Show at Louisville, Kentucky. They also held their annual Parent-Son Banquet on April 18th. FFA lives true to its slogan, "The future farmer of today is the successful farmer of tomorrow."

Hi-Y succeeded with another annual can drive that provided needy families with food. This takes a lot of time and patience in sorting the canned food and checking off the list of names for the families.

Hi-Y also gave their time to work in the concession stands at the basketball games, and they played the teachers in a game of basketball, which the teachers won. Hi-Y also went to the Back Forty.

They also opened the gym on Tuesday nights for recreational purposes.

National Honor Society is an organization that honors the students who most fully attain the high degrees of scholarship, leadership, and cooperation sanctioned by the club; led this year by Mr. Namovich, sponsor, and Sarah Theurer, president.

The club's activities consisted of going to see the play SEESAW at Muncie, working in the concession stand during basketball games, and selling spirit buttons.

Council makes system better

Student Council is the backbone of our school. The council is made up of members representing our school to get things accomplished that are requested by students. Special committees are selected to provide entertainment as well as education.

One of Student Council's main events was sponsoring the Juffy Drive. Each homeroom class tried to raise money by having bake sales, junk sales and other sales. The Variety Show also kept the council busy.

The have had many projects to get worthwhile items for the students use and enjoyment.

Spirit yells, 'our team is dynamite!'

Girls Pep Block doesn't only provoke spirit of the team, but also arouses the crowd to back our team as well. Many new and different ideas were presented by putting on skits, painting signs and our senior boys building a pyramid during a halfime basketball game.

The girls were spreading spirit by decorating the team members bedrooms and raising money by selling popcorn balls to put on a sock hop. Varsity cheerleaders were Cindy Smitley, Jane Ann Hall, Lynn Chiddister, Lisa Allen, Kim Smith, and Lisa Peterson. Reserve cheerleaders were Joni Ledbetter, Marci Stults, Joni Strausburg, and Michele Johnson.

The graduating class of '75 was active in many ways to make their last year at Portland High School a super year. In doing so, they sponsored a Winter Carnival to raise money for bigger and oval pictures in the Typhoon, and aroused the spirit of Juniors, Sophomores and the faculty.

The Seniors were looked up to by the underclassmen and set a good example for the upcoming students.

Even though they will leave P.H.S. and strive for bigger goals in life, the years spent learning, laughing, and just being a part of the school will always be remembered. Congratulations to those graduating, and may they reach happiness and success.

Spirit of "76"

The spirit of "76" was alive and showing as the Junior class produced enthusiasm various times throughout the school year. The Juniors produced a very exciting Junior-Senior Prom along with a successful class play "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes".

The responsibilities given to these students were difficult at times, but nothing they could not conquer or change. They tried their best to make their junior year and last year at P.H.S. one to remember.

Although there were not always pleasing or exciting experiences, all of them became cherished future memories. No one can forget those carefree, happy days.

Sixty six and eleven . . .

As the class of '77 became a part of the high school, there were new responsibilities and adjustments to be made. They were no longer the oldest in the school and had to take the ridicule and harrassment of upperclassmen.

The sophomores contributed by arousing school spirit to make the last year at P.H.S. the best. Although there were some trying times, they did very well.

Sophomores Viv Baxter, Micky Miller, Lisa Pickett, Joni Strausburg, Karla Brown, and Marci Stultz work hard to make the sophomore wall an original.

The 1975 Typhoon is a very special yearbook — the last edition presented at PHS. I wish to express my thanks to my staff and sponsor Maggie Whitt who have worked many hours to produce a book that will keep memories alive for years. I also thank Mike Bailey and Steve McBride, photographers; Nancy Runyon, business manager; Galen Stoner, cover design; and Jim Arthur, American Yearbook Representative. A special thank you goes to Principal Harold Schutz who gave me a lot of support towards the Typhoon.
